Bringing big opportunities to small exchanges

New exchanges are being enabled for fibre broadband every week, opening new opportunities for thousands more homes and businesses. This year we will see the arrival of fibre broadband at many of the smallest exchanges in Scotland, previously served by 'exchange only' lines. Read on to discover more about the challenges these pose! The latest exchanges set to be enabled include Drumlithie, Bargrennan, Dunscore, Fenwick, Innerwick, Avonbridge, Arncroach, Ballinluig, Ballantrae, Dailly, Dechmont and four new exchanges in the Scottish Borders – Bonchester Bridge, Crailing, Heriot and Walkerburn. Check whether you can get fibre broadband yet at our interactive map.

Rising to the challenge of 'Exchange Only' lines

'Exchange only' is the name given to telephone lines that connect directly to the telephone exchange rather than connecting via a green roadside cabinet. Scotland has the highest proportion of 'exchange only' (EO) lines in the UK and they present us with unique challenges when it comes to rolling out fibre broadband. We are delighted that over 200,000 premises with EO lines have already been connected to fibre broadband through the Digital Scotland programme and that over 320,000 will have been connected by the time the programme is completed. Find out just why EO lines are so challenging and see the story of how one happy customer with an EO line is now enjoying superfast speeds in Glasgow.
